FIREMEN DRAG RIVER FOR B. V. LAD

Compromise in Civil Rights Is In Jeopardy

WASHINGTON (UP) — Southern Democrats today felt confident they can knock the injunction provision from the civil rights bill.

The important provision — Part III — would empower the attorney general to seek federal court injunctions to block actual or threatened civil rights violations.

Senate GOP Leader William F. Knowland abandoned efforts of getting a compromise on the provision. He announced his failure after a wide split over the injunction provision developed among civil rights bill backers.

The Senate planned to vote early next week on Part III. Southerners believed they could rally enough civil rights supporters to kill the section.

Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.) leader of the southern opposition bloc, said he was glad the Senate "is going to have the opportunity to vote up or down on this Part III which is the most vicious part of the bill."

Other congressional news:

Foreign Aid: The House approved President Eisenhower's foreign aid program after slashing it to $3,116,833,000 — narly 20 per cent less than the President requested. House GOP Leader Joseph W. Martin Jr. said the program can get by with the House-passed bill. But he appeared to assume a Senate - House conference committee will restore some of the cuts. The House restored only 100 million of 300 million dollars in defense support funds which the President called necessary for national security.

Taxes: Congressional tax experts said the $1,645,000,000 federal surplus reported for fiscal 1957 put a question mark over the possibility of a tax cut nxt year. The experts said tax collections were up—but so was spending.

Money: Sen. Robert S. Kerr (D-Okla.) called on th President to tell whether he wants a "moderate recession" to solve the problems of prosperity. Kerr said the Treasury decision to refinance part of the national debt at quarter-century record high interest rates would tend to raise prices and curtail production.

Mayor Is Just 'Lover' and not Good 'Fighter'

AURORA, Ill. (UP) — Mayor Paul Egan, a "lover, not a fighter" by his own description, said he would ask for a jury trial when he goes before a justice of the peace today on charges of clouting the city sewer commissioner.

The fiery mayor spent two hours in the women's section of his own jail Friday before a friend posted $200 bond. Egan was jailed when his personal check for the bond was turned down.

The past two days had been busy ones, even for the active Egan. He punched Commissioner William B Robertson at a council meeting Thursday when Robertson sought to mediate a difference between Egan and another council member.

In the "Opera Bouffe" that followed, the versatile mayor succeeded in picking up a speeding ticket, locking himself in a washroom accidentally for a half-hour, and acquiring a flat tire.

Robertson, meanwhile, had filed assault and battery charges against Egan.

When Egan's personal check was refused, he was put in the woman's section of the lockup, which was otherwise empty, and found it natural enough.

"You know me. I'm a lover, not a fighter," he said.

Tranquilizers 'Least Toxic', Doctor Claims

PHILADELPHIA (UP) — Dr. George E. Farrar, Jr. mdical director of Wyeth Laboratories, Inc. said Friday that although the new tranquilizers must be treated with "respect," they are among the "least toxic" of drugs.

The council on drugs of the American Medical Association recently issued a report warning that the tranquilizers may be habit forming.

Farrar said that extensive clinical investigation "involving more than 150 groups of patients showed that this drug is one of the least toxic of drugs with a high degree of effectiveness."

He was referring to meprobamate, the essential drug in Wyeth's Equanil and other tranquilizers.

Farrar said "side effects have occurred in only a small fraction of all the cases studied. There is no useful drug on the market that does not give a small percentage of reactions."

He said, however, that "even the safest of drugs such as meprobamate must be treated with respect."

Engagement to Princess Denied In London Visit

LONDON (UP) — Handsome Lord Patrick Beresford returns to Dublin today, quieting for the moment rumors of his imminent engagement to Princess Margaret.

Th 24-year-old lord flew here for a 24-hour visit Friday and told newsmen at the airport, "There is absolutely no truth to the story that I have come back here to announce my engagement to Princess Margaret."

The rumors which began at a garden party at Buckingham Palace Thursday finally got into print in London this morning, 6 hours later. British newspapers are traditionally careful about their coverage of the royal family and refused to print any word of the rumors that flooded London.

It wasn't until a Buckingham Palace press spokesman issued an official denial that the newspapers picked up the story.

SEARCH RIVER FOR BELLE VERNON BOY — Firemen from Belle Vernon, North Belle Vernon, Fayette City, North Charlerol, and South Brownsville have been relentlessly dragging the Monongahela River ever since ten year old Donald Bitonti slipped off an inner tube yesterday afternoon near his Belle Vernon home. The firemen have confined their operations to a 30-foot radius off shore, reasoning that the boy's body is snagged on the rough river bottom.

Two Teen-age Boys Arrested For Burglaries

Two teen-aged boys were arrested by Monessen police yesterday and charged with a series of burglaries at the United Steelworkers Hall, 803 Donner Ave.

Turned over to juvenile authorities in Greensburg were Charles Edward Nichols, 806 Schoonmaker Ave, and Vincent Giovaniello, 16 of 842 Donner Ave., Monessen.

Police Chief Michael Kuvinka said both youths were employed as pinboys at the bowling alleys located in the union building. He said they confessed to the burglaries under examination.

Kuvinka said that an unusual police technique was used to solve the case. He disclosed that money compartments of pinball and cigarette machines in the building were covered with a stain.

The police then kept close check on all persons who worked at the bowling alleys. When the two young men showed up with the stains, they were picked up for questioning.

Kuvinka said the youths admitted to entering the building five times, either through a rear door or window. They allegedly took an undisclosed amount of cash from pinball and cigarette machines in the union hall, operated by Local 1229.

AMVETS in State Convention Today

EASTON, Pa. (UP) — The Pennsylvania AMVETS, veterans of World War II and Korea, opened their 13th annual three-day convention here Friday.

The convention banquet tonight will have as its principal speaker, Rep. Francis Walter (D—Pa.).

Delegates were welcomed Friday by Mayor Orion H. Reeves of Easton.

Woman Is Killed

WASHINGTON, Pa. (UP)—Mrs. Mary Manfredi, 57, Fredericktown Pa., was killed Friday night in a three car collision in which four other persons were injured.

Parente Appeal to Be Heard By the State Supreme Court

Attorneys for Mayor Hugo Parente yesterday appealed a Westmoreland County Court decision which, in effect, gave the Republican nomination to John R. Stueska in the upcoming Monessen mayoralty campaign.

Parente filed exceptions to the appeal in Pittsburgh, asking for a Supreme Court decision.

According to a clerk in the prothonotary's office, the Supreme Court jurists will probably review the case in late September.

At issue in the legal dispute is whether the County Elections Board should or should not cumulate write-in and sticker votes cast on voting machines regardless of how the candidate's name is spelled.

Parente easily won the Democratic nomination. Since there were no Republican nominees, both candidates staged a write-in campaign to win the GOP nod.

Acting on Appeal

The County Elections Board, acting on advice from its solicitor, ruled that only votes with the names properly spelled could be counted. On that basis, Parente won 70-58.

Acting on an appeal by John R Stieska, president Judge Richard Laird reversed the Elections Board, stating that all votes, regardless of how the names were spelled, should be counted. That gave Stieska the nomination, 170 to 149.

Parente's attorneys then appealed to Westmoreland County Court, en banc. A majority decision from that body upheld Judge Laird's ruling.

The appeal to the State Supreme Court is the latest — and last — step in the legal battle.

The Supreme Court ruling is expected to set a precedent as to whether similar rules apply to both voting machines and paper ballots.

Minimum Pay for Firemen Turned Down by Leader

HARRISBURG (UP) — Legislation to fix minimum salaries for third-class city firemen with five years' service at $4,500 was rejected yesterday by Gov. George M. Leader.

The governor vetoed the measure as "selecting one class of city employes for favored treatment." He said the bill would have imposed costs of hundreds of thousands of dollars upon Pennsylvania's 47 third-class cities without regard to their budgets and the availability of funds.

Leader pointed out he had vetoed a similar measure passed by the 1955 Legislature. He said it was not in the interest of good government to modify the home rule power given to cities to fix the compensation of their emloyes.

The governor approved a measure increasing sick leave for firemen in those cities from 14 to 21 days. The legislation specified that when the sick leave exceeded four consecutive days the firemen would have to furnish a physician's statement showing the extent of illness.

Foster Songs Being Rewritten

PITTSBURGH (UP)—The curator of the Stephen Foster Memorial here said today two networks wre trying to "rewrite history" in censoring Foster's songs.

"It is pointless to turn back the clock," Fletcher Hodges Jr. said.

Hodges said it is a "fact" slavery and the Civil War existed and that "seen in their historical context, Foster's songs were part of the American scene."

The National Broadcasting Co. and the Columbia Broadcasting System have announced they are deleting such words as "Mammy," "Old Black Joe" and "Darkie" from Foster's songs.

Reduction of Theatre Tax Is Turned Down

HARRISBURG (UP) — Compromise legislation to reduce local taxes on motion picture admissions to 5 per cent was vetoed today by Gov. George M. Leader.

The governor said there were about 180 municipalities which charge an admission tax in excess of 5 per cent.

"It is a matter of common knowledge that these municipalities are in serious need of revenue, that this need is increasing and that any reduction in their taxing authority would seriously interfere and impair the performance of essential public services," he said.

The governor said "in fairness to the communities any tax relief should be granted at the local level so that communities could adjust to meet obligations through other tax sources."

Originally, the Senate proposed a flat 10 per cent reduction but the compromise figure was worked out in a Senate-House conference committee.

Two Parachute From B57 Bomber

FUCHU, Japan (UP)—Two Air Force officers parachuted safely Friday when their B57 bomber went out of control and crashed near Atsugi Air Base some 25 miles southwest of Tokyo.

They were identified as Capt. Millard F. Graham and 2nd Lt. Thomas Dimeo, attached to the 5th Air Force. Neither was injured.

Concert Tomorrow Evening at Park

A concert of popular music will be presented tomorrow — not today — at City Park.

It was previously reported that the concert would be held tonight, but a Recreation Department spokesman said the correct date is tomorrow.

The music, supplied by the Stuart Arnold orchestra, will begin at 7 p. m.

County Man Told To Halt Pollution

HARRISBURG (UP)—The state Sanitary Water Board has ordered John Naser, Greensburg RD 1, to halt pollution of a tributary of Sewickley Creek by waste water from his abbatoir in Hempfield Twp., Westmoreland County.

The board said a tank designed to handle waste waters at the packinghouse overflowed into an unnamed tributary of the creek.

Donald Bitonti Falls Off Tube Near His Home

Firemen resumed dragging operations in the Monongahela River today in search of ten year old Donald Bitonti who apparently slipped off an inner tube and drowned yesterday afternoon a short distance from his Belle Vernon home.

Firemen dragged the river unsuccessfully for more than ten hours yesterday.

Donald, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dominic Bitonti, of Blind Lane, was floating in the river on an inner tube about 25 feet from shore with a brother, William, 11.

According to William the victim slipped from the tube and sank in the water about 1:15 p. m. The brother paddled to shore and ran for help.

Firemen from Belle Vernon and North Belle Vernon started rescue operations within minutes after the tragedy.

Fire Chief Kenneth Beazell, of Belle Vernon, said the lad's clothing was found on the shore.

Dragging Difficult

Beazell pointed out that two factors made dragging operations difficult. He said the boy was unclothed and that the river bottom was bad at the point of the accident.

Donald apparently drowned in about 12 to 15 feet of water. Firemen fear his body is snagged on the river bottom.

"The river is low and there is practically no undercurrent at the point of the tragedy," Beazell said. "So we'll continue dragging within a 25 to 30 foot radius."

Fire companies from Fayette City, North Charleroi and South Brownsville joined in the rescue attempt. At one time, ten boats were dragging the area.

The victim's father, Dominic, who does odd jobs around Belle Vernon, said that neither of the boys could swim. The boy's parents watched the unsuccessful search last night.

The Salvation Army arrived on the scene shortly after the search started and served coffee, sandwiches and dougnuts to firemen and police.

The boys were floating atop on an inflated inner tube near the Lincoln Homes plant in Belle Vernon at the time of the mishap.

The victim is one of 11 children in the Bitonti family. He was a student in the Belle Vernon elementary school.

The drowning was the first of the year in the Belle Vernon area.

Rhonda Scoville Named to Board

Rhonda B. Scoville has been appointed to fill the unexpired term of Donora School Director Paul Johnson.

Mrs. Scoville will serve until the first Monday of December this year.

Johnson resigned from the Board of Education last month and was promptly appointed to fill the unexpired term of James H. Myers, which will run to the first Monday of December, 1961.

Myers resigned when he accepted employment in Greensburg.

Hoffa Cleared; Faces Another Round in Probe

WASHINGTON (UP)— Newly-acquitted Teamster crown prince James R. Hoffa today faced possibly more trouble with the Senate Rackets Committee that accused him of bribery.

Committee members indicated Hoffa probably will be called to testify when the committee opens a rackets investigation in New York.

A federal jury cleared Hoffa Friday of charges that he bribed a Senate Rackets Committee investigator, John Cye Cheasty to steal committee secrets during its investigation of the giant Teamsters union.

The verdict presumably cleared the way for Hoffa's expected drive to succeed retiring Teamster President Dave Beck—a prime target of the Rackets Committee.

"Little Jimmy"—long regarded Beck's heir apparent—said he will meet with his union friends in Chicago within a week "to decide what my future activities will be."

Hoffa, czar of a Midwest Teamster empire, would oppose a clean-up ticket backed by Beck's foe, Secretary-treasurer John English.

Rackets Committee Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark.) served notice that his New York hearings will begin soon. He declined direct comment on Hoffa's acquittal but said Hoffa's name figures in the New York phase of the committee's inquiry and he "might" be called. Sen. Irving M. Ives (R-N.Y.), top ranking Republican Rackets Committee member, said more directly "I anticipate that he will."

No Publication Is Necessary of Budget and Taxes

HARRISBURG (UP) — Gov. George M. Leader yesterday turned down legislation to require Pittsburgh's governing bodies to publish the budget and submit proposed taxes prior to municipal elections.

Th governor said one of his most serious objections to the measure was that its provisions were mandatory and not merely optional.

He said the bill was contrary to the general rule of law that the provisions of statutes requiring public officers to act within a specified time are generally regarded as directory, unless time is "of the essence of the thing to be done."

"This bill not only interferes with Pittsburgh's home rule, but also changes the principle of law generally applicable to these situations," he said.

The legislation would have required the Pittsburgh city administration to publish its budget by Aug. 15 and disclose proposed taxes by Oct. 15. Presently Pittsburgh is required to reveal the budget and taxes two weeks prior to the beginning of the new year.

Wanted Man Is Nabbed by Police

Brownsville police yesterday picked up a man said to be wanted by West Virginia authorities for jailbreak and assaulting an officer.

The suspect, Gerald Michael Guy, of West Brownsville, was seized in his auto in Brownsville.

Guy reportedly escaped from a jail in Charleston, W. Va., sometime in May and has been free since. He allegedly attacked an officer during the break. He had two months still to serve on a non-support charge at the time.

Some Pinball Skill Needed, Trooper Says

A state trooper, who had played about 90 pinball games in preparation for his testimony, admitted under cross-examination yesterday before Fayette County court in Uniontown that "some degree" of skill is involved in playing the devices.

Trooper Arthur Beradi made the admission under sharp cross-examination by defense counsel Louis Glasso. He conceded that it was possible "to control the pinball to some extent" after it left the channel and entered the field of lights and bunkers.

Beradi also surprised the court by admitting that he played the machines on occasions other than during the investigation. Asked why he played the devices, the trooper replied:

"No reason at all."

Glasso then asked if he played for gambling purposes. Beradi replied: "Possibly, I may have."

The state trooper gave the same answer when asked if he played "for fun."

Earlier in the day, a research associate from Penn State University, Harold J. Ergott, Jr., testified that "skill does not enter into it," but admitted that "a player can determine speed and direction of the ball."

Ergott said:

"The multiple coin and extra ball feature does not decrease chances of winning or detract from the skill of an experienced player. But no skill is used in obtaining the odds or gaining an advantage over the electrical setup on the backboard."

The commonwealth plans to offer additional testimony on Monday.

Thus far the state has concentrated its case on attempting to prove to the court that "bingo-type" machines, such as those de-

Gus Brickner Begins Training Grind Prior to Channel Swim

CALAIS, France (Special to The Daily Independent) — Gus Brickner, 44-year old steelworker from Charleroi, set up training here today in preparation for his attempt at the treacherous English Channel.

Gus arrived in London earlier in the week, then traveled by train to Dover, England. From there, he crossed the Channel by boat to France.

Gus' trainer is George Pourcelle, who is the head instructor at one of Calais' more exclusive beaches. It was Pourcelle who trained Jacques Amgot, of Quebec, a buddy of Brickner's who successfully navigated the Channel.

"For the time being my trainer will permit me to swim only two hours a day,' said Gus. "However I walk four miles daily."

Gus said he can't understand French but he thinks his training is off to a good start. At any rate, Pourcelle has mumbled something which sounds to Gus like "dots goot."

"The salt water bothered me a little at first, but I'll get used to it." Th jelly fish hit you all over but they don't hurt you. It just feels like a person rubbing their finger nails down your arm."

Gus gets an early start each day on his training. The sun comes up over Calais about 4:00 a. m. and Brickner is there to greet it.

Brickner stirred some attention yesterday when he ordered milk at one of the cafes. Most of the natives drink either wine or warm beer with their meals.

"At last I'm getting my life-long ambition to swim the Channel and I'm going to do my best," said Gus. "If I don't make it, they'll have to drag me out of the water; I won't quit."

Brickner will train here from four to six weeks before attempting the Channel. A special commission will decide exactly what day is best suited for the attempt.

Thus Gus himself, doesn't know when the big day will be.

Street Program Under Way In Washington Twp. Area

An ambitious street improvement program is now well under way in Washington Twp., a spokesman for the township supervisors reported today.

No less than 14 streets will be black-topped during the summer-long project.

Supervisor Chuck Pabis said that several of the streets have already been completed and that most of them have been graded.

The actual work is being done by Fayette County work crews. The township is supplying the materials at a cost of about $10,000.

If the project had been contracted, the cost would have been doubled, according to Pabis.

"The county paves so many streets a year for townships," Pabis explained. "We've waited four years for our turn."

These are the streets which will be included in the current improvement program:

Arnold City: Second St. and Third St.

Brownstown: Cook St. West St., and Second St.

Fairhope: Smithfield St., Center St., Orchard Ave., Maple Ave., and Charles St.

Lynnwood: First St., Lynnwood Ave., Liberty Ave., and Grove Ave.

ONE IDEA OF GOD

At the entrance to the valley where they buried their kings an ancient and industrious people carved the Sphinx.

This was their idea of God: the body of a lion, suggesting power . . . the face of a man, suggesting personality . . . the whole amazing image suggesting their belief in a MIGHTY deity who could be KNOWN.

Today, in our churches, we worship God as Jesus Christ revealed Him: almighty but merciful . . . knowing and eager to be known . . . loving man and seeking man's love . . . saving all who believe in their Saviour—His Son!

Can the ancient Sphinx have any significance for men and women like ourselves who have before us the Gospel and example of Christ?

Only this: As long as it remains, the awesome Sphinx will remind us of man's search for God. Just as our own church bells remind us of our opportunity to know, love, and serve Him!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

New Sheppard Suspect Knows Details of Case

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UP) — A convict who claims he killed Marilyn Sheppard disclosed details of the murder that were never made public, it was reported today.

Statements made by Donald Joseph Wedler, 23, to a lie detector expert were given to Lt. Gov. Paul M. Herbert, counsel for Dr. Samuel Sheppard, Cleveland osteopath serving a life term for his wife's murder.

Herbert did not give newsmen the unpublished details of the Sheppard murder that Wedler mentioned while being questioned by Alex Gregory, the lie detector expert, in Deland, Fla.

Lie Test For Sheppard

Sheppard himself will undergo a lie detector examination by Gregory, it was announced after Ohio Gov. C. William O'Neill authorized the test on the basis of the "confession" made by Wedler.

The governor authorized the lie-detector test at Sheppard's request. O'Nill said that this was the first time that Sheppard had asked to take a test. It will be given in Ohio Penitentiary here where Sheppard is serving a life sentence for second degree murder.

Sheppard had refused to undergo a lie-detector test during the investigation of the July 4, 1954 murder of Marilyn Sheppard on the ground that it would not be "impartial." But Sheppard maintained his innocence throughout the trial and subsequent appeals to higher courts.

Wedler told newsmen in Deland Friday night that he entered a Cleveland home on the night Marilyn was killed, beat a woman with a steel pipe as she slept and then struck someone who rushed upstairs.

Authorities Still Skeptical

Sheppard maintained throughout the trial that he was lying on a couch on the night of the murder and rushed upstairs when he heard a ban on such tests on the osteo-conscious by a bushy-haired intruder.

Even so, Cleveland authorities remained skeptical about the Wedler confession, noting discrepancies. For instance, Wedler said he struck the woman only a few times while an autopsy report showed she had been bludgeoned about 35 times.

Wedler, who was the 25th person to "confess" the crime, told newsmen he was in a "mental fog" after he bludgeoned a Cleveland housewife and could not remember everything he did. But after reading accounts of the Sheppard murder, he said he was convinced he killed Marilyn because "there couldn't be any other answer."

Blind Youngster 'Happy, Healthy', Mother Reports

MIAMI (UP) — Little Mike Sibole drew the tears and sympathy of the world a year ago when a surgeon blinded him to halt the spread of cancer.

But Mike, now 6 years old, is "happy and healthy," his mother, Mrs. James W. Sibole, reported today.

"He doesn't act any different now than before his operation," she said.

The brown-haired lad and his family, who moved here from Winter Park, Fla., after the operation that removed his remaining eye, now live in a new house at nearby Hialeah and Mike goes to a school where teachers say "he is always ready for something new."

The Siboles adopted the alert youngster as a baby. He lost his right eye to cancer two years before last July's removal of the left one.

Radio Peiping Has Own Quiz Show Program

TOKYO (UP)—Communist China's Radio Peiping has bowed to a capitalistic fad—the quiz show.

But there apparently are no $64,000 questions on the weekly quiz show recently inaugurated by Peiping Radio, the official voice of the Red Chinese.

Sample questions: What was the first country that recognized the Pople's Republic of China? (Russia).

Who was the famous Italian traveler who journeyed to China in the 13th century? (Marco Polo).

Name an important product used all over the world that was first invented in China? (Gun powder).

"Remember," cautioned Radio Peiping after posing this week's question, "your correct answer must be posted within three days to qualify for a prize. Just send it in to Quiz, Radio Peking, Peking, China."

It did not say what the prize would be.

FILTERING CLAIMS — Appearing before a House committee, Dr. E. Cuyler Hammond, co-author of an American Cancer society study on smoking, testifies that cigarettes cause death from heart disease as well as lung cancer. The committee is investigating filter cigarettes and their effectiveness claims.

Peruvian Beauty Is Chosen as Miss Universe

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UP) — A stately, well-chaperoned, Peruvian socialite, Gladys Zender, 18, reigned today as the most beautiful girl in the world and the first Latin to win the annual Miss Universe pageant.

The graceful brunette wept unashamedly Friday night and had to borrow a handkerchief from the grinning master of ceremonies when last year's Miss Universe, Carol Morris, of Iowa, presented the successor with a red satin cape and glittering crown.

In addition to being the first contestant to win over 75 candidates with her South American way, Gladys may also be the first victor of the world wide pageant not to accept the prize of a $10,000 tour.

The new Miss Universe (36-23½-36), daughter of a wealthy Lima paper manufacturer, has been reared in the old Spanish tradition.

She has never been out on a date—only with groups of friends and always chaperoned. Her trip to Long Beach was the first time she had been out of Peru.

"She must always be accompanied by her mother," her father, Eduardo, said. "I have not decided yet if she will accept this tour."

Miss Brazil, Terezinha Goncalves Morango, 20, finished second in the competition.

Third place winner was Miss England, Sonia Hamilton, 23, of London, while Miss Cuba, Maria Rosa Gamio, 19, of Havana, came in fourth.

Constable Bill Is Rejected by Governor Leader

HARRISBURG (UP) — Legislation to restrict deputy constables to powers only within the ward, borough or township where the appointing constable was elected was rejected yesterday by Gov. George M. Leader.

The governor said he vetoed the measure because it contained two different and inconsistent interpretations as to exactly what was intended.

He said the "ambiguity" was spotted by the state Justice Department which prepared amendments. However, he said the bill's sponsor, Maurice H. Goldstein (R-Allegheny) refused to accept the revisions.

"Without regard to the merits of the bill, it must be vetoed because those subject to its terms and our courts would be unable to give effect to such ambiguous and contradictory language," he said.

Billy Graham Pitches At Stadium Tonight

NEW YORK (UP) — Billy Graham will preach tonight before an anticipated Yankee Stadium audience of 85,000 persons gathered for a mammoth rally that will be a climax, but not a finish, to his crusade to save New York.

The rally, at which Vice President Richard M. Nixon will be a special guest, was to have been the last meeting in Graham's 10-week crusade, but Friday the revival was extended to Aug. 10.

Graham said Friday night before delivering his 60th Madison Square Garden sermon that the crusade might continue "until we're thrown out of town."

"This is God's doing," he said "We must give him the credit."

Although the home of the New York Yankees baseball team seats only 67,000, there is room for many thousands of standees in the stands and on the outfield grass, a Graham spokesman said. More than 85,000 persons are expected to attend the rally.

Graham hopes tonight's rally, which will be held even if it rains, will be one of the largest gatherings in the history of the Christian church.

His previous high attendance was recorded in Wembley Stadium in London, when 120,000 persons came to hear him speak. His largest attendance in the United States was 75,000 at the Cotton Bowl in Dallas in 1953.

The rally will be telecast coast-to-coast over 50 stations (ABC-TV, 8-9 p.m. e.d.t.) but will not be seen on television in New York.

Friday night in Madison Square Garden, the number of "decisions for Christ" recorded by Graham's listeners reached a record total of 35,236, as 596 persons came forward to make "decisions." The previous record of 34,653 "decisions" was set in London's Harringay Arena in 1954.

Including the 18,500 persons who packed the huge sports arena Friday night, more than 1,102,600 persons have heard Graham in the Garden.

The High Cost of Aging Schools

THE RISING COST of keeping the Monessen school plant in condition is making more apparent the need for long- as well as short-range planning in this phase of our community life.

Recently the school district advertised for bids on items of repair and replacement involving several buildings. Among other things, gas furnaces are asked for Vocational and Ben Franklin schools, replacement of wood trim at Jefferson school, termite control in Jefferson and the Senior High school buildings, and paving and painting at other locations. The directors have an architect's estimate of 20 thousand dollars for repairs to one side of Washington school alone.

With the exception of the Senior High school, all of Monessen's school buildings are of prewar construction, with ages reaching to 49 years. Chasing deterioration in seven structures of this size is a costly pursuit, and it is going to demand increasing attention from the school directors, who should be devoting their major efforts to the improvement and extension of the instructional system.

In addition, obsolescence in many of these buildings is going to make it increasingly difficult if not impossible to provide the quality of education we covet for all the children of Monessen. There are some things that simply can't be provided in an out-of-date building, even if it's in good repair and even if the faculty is all it should be.

* * *

AS A FURTHER complication, population shifts are making our school buildings unsuitable on other accounts. We have unused school rooms in some sections of the city where population is declining; we have no school rooms in some sections of the city where population is increasing. This inefficient deployment of facilities is obviously costly and calls for correction.

A long-range look at Monessen's school needs would indicate perhaps a need for fewer elementary buildings of better design on uncramped sites, better located to serve neighborhood areas and better equipped for the higher standards of modern education. We do not attain such an ideal by wishing ourselves there. Nor can our school directors proceed to scrap what we have and start immediately on a shiny new plant.

Agreement on a reasonable goal for Monessen's future school building needs should not be dealyed. The plan should be a flexible one subject to revision as the character and the needs of the community may change over the years. And it should be accompanied by shorter term plans for the gradual elimination of our existing white elephant buildings.

We must proceed in an orderly way from what we have to what the future demands. We are paying now for not having done this sooner.

Soil Bank Revived

THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, which buried the soil bank two months ago, dug it up the other day and voted to continue the program for one more year.

Enthusiastically endorsed by both parties in Congress in 1956, it went into operation late in that election year. The waste and mismanagement which critics charge against the plan were the natural consequences of hasty efforts to get relief to the farmers before the ballots were cast.

One new provision puts a limit of 3 thousand dollars on the amount of soil bank benefits any one farmer can receive during 1958. That effectively limits the relief which the plan provides to relatively small farmers and acreages.

Another provision stipulates that all benefits be paid by September 15, 1958, and this bars any chance that payments might be rushed to farmers in politically doubtful districts at the last moment in the hope of influencing results of the 1958 congressional elections. The total amount which can be used to take acreage out of production is $500 million under the compromise measure.

Like all other attempts to legislate balance into the economy of the country, this one is less than perfect. Too often the temptation to use public funds to buy the favor of distressed groups is more than politicians can resist. It is still far from certain that this money will not be wasted.

Merry-Go-Round—

Dictator Wants Self Probed by Top Lawyers

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Diplomatic circles are buzzing over a dramatic move contemplated by Ambassador de Moya and dictator Trujillo of the Dominican Republic.

They are negotiating with two top New York lawyers, plus a prominent public relations expert to have them make a tough, thorough investigation of the alleged murder of Prof. Jesus Galindez who disappeared while a teacher at Columbia University, and is reported to have been spirited back to Trujillo City.

Mr. Pearson

The proposal is that if these two lawyers find Trujillo is guilty or in any way connected with the crime, they are to say so. But if the attorneys find Trujillo is not guilty they shall so report. They are to have a free hand to hire detectives, investigators or anyone else to probe the matter thoroughly.

The two proposed attorneys are Morris Ernst, counsel for the Civil Liberties Union; and retired N. Y. Supreme Court Justice William H. Munson. The public relations expert approached by the Dominican Embassy is Sydney Baron of New York, who in turn picked the toughest attorney he could find.

Because of the incorruptible crusading caliber of the men involved, diplomats here are flabbergasted at the daring of the Dominican Government in putting the reputation of the most publicized dictator in the Western Hemisphere in the hands of three men.

Judge Munson, a lifelong Republican, a former district attorney in Buffalo, is the man who put labor racketeer Joe Fay in jail. He was also called upon to judge the legality of Mayor Impellitteri's race in New York City. Ernst, a Democrat, was a close adviser to FDR, has written many books on civil liberties. If they find Trujillo not involved in the Galindez murder and other charges, it will be difficult for anyone successfully to refute them. It will be interesting to see what happens.

Dave Beck Run-Around

Senator McClellan of Arkansas has been subpoenaing prostitutes from all over the USA to testify against labor leaders. He might well delve into the structure of certain unions, particularly the Teamsters, to show how difficult it is for the union members to have any power.

The other day A. E. Collins, a member of Teamsters Local 81 in Portland, telegraphed honest John English, secretary-treasurer of the Teamsters and an anti-Beck leader, asking for a hearing before the executive board of the Teamsters to show why the officers of Local 81 should not be removed and a new election held. Real fact is that Portland Local 81 has never been allowed to elect its own officers since it was formed two years ago. It has been headed by a "trusteeship" appointed by Beck. The trustee is Clyde Crosby, who in turn appoints all the Local's officers. These must be paid $8,800 each by the Local. Under present rules, these Beck-sponsored officers will represent Local 81 at the Teamsters international convention later this summer.

That was why Collins wired honest John English.

However, under union rules, this petition had to be referred to Dave Beck. Accordingly, English wrote on June 28 that the letter had been so referred. On June 30 Collins wired Beck but got no reply. On July 5 he sent Beck a second wire. Again no reply.

The election of Teamster convention delegates is slated for July 21. As of this writing, it looks as if Portland Local 81 will fail to get the right to elect its own delegates, and will be represented by Dave Beck's stooges instead.

Banker's Lobby Rewarded

The American public has to be really on the alert to catch all the backstage moves in Washington. When Erle Cocke, Sr., of Atlanta, Ga., was appointed to the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, most people didn't know it was a payoff.

Early last winter, the Eisenhower administration was under the gun of a threatened penetrating investigation by one of the most eagle-eyed finance probers on Capitol Hill — Congressman Wright Patman of Texarkana, Tex. Patman had sharpened his ax for a real probe of inflation, which many think is the most serious fault of the Eisenhower administration.

Patman had the backing of the most powerful man in the House of Representatives, Speaker Sam Rayburn. But for some strange reason southern Democrats switched. They voted not with their two southern colleagues, Speaker Rayburn and Wright Patman, but with the Eisenhower administration.

Reason was that a deluge of southern bankers swarmed through the lobbies of Capitol Hill.

The man who masterminded this backstage lobby for Eisenhower against southern Democrats was able Erle Cocke, Sr., president of the Fulton National Bank of Atlanta, Ga. As a result, Eisenhower won.

Erle Cocke, Sr., has now been rewarded.

Washington Pipeline

Both Eisenhower and Nixon have urged Senator Knowland to reconsider his decision to quit the Senate. They said he was needed in Washington, should not run for Governor of California thereby precipitating a bitter battle with popular Gov. Goodwin Knight. Knowland politely told them that he had made up his mind. . . Gen. John Medaris, stuffed-shirt commander of the Army Ballistics Missile Base at Huntsville, Ala., has been getting the silent treatment from many of his own officers. They are fed up with him for giving the cold shoulder to Col. John Nickerson on the witness stand during the Nickerson court-martial. They feel General Medaris kowtowed to the high brass in Washington and deserted a valiant battler for the Army. As a result, several officers now refuse to speak to Medaris except strictly in the line of duty. The morale problem is so serious Medaris may have to be transferred.

Krushchev on Disarmament

By ROSCOE DRUMMOND

WASHINGTON — The Soviet Union is continuing to douse cold water on the London disarmament talks.

Twice lately Nikita Khrushchev has gone out of his way to lacerate the atmosphere of the negotiations. On one day he attacked President Eisenhower as saying "a stupid thing" in reporting that American scientists have perfected a nearly "clean" hydrogen bomb — that is, almost totally free of dangerous radioactive fallout — and are at the point of producing a wholly "clean" bomb. Then, forty-eight hours later, with the talks at a critical stage, he denounces the London conference as dominated by governments which, he says, want neither peace nor disarmament.

Mr. Drummond

What is Mr. Khrushchev up to? Does he want to break up the discussions entirely? Or is he after something different than that?

Nobody can be entirely sure of the answer but it is important to come as near to the answer as possible.

Part of Answer

It seems to me that part of the answer is certainly this:

That Mr. Khrushchev wants to get the narrowest, littlest, least disarmament agreement possible, namely, an end to nuclear tests — and nothing more.

That the Soviets are already trying to persuade the world that it will be the Western nations, not the Soviet Union, who stand in the way of a useful disarmament agreement if we insist that a temporary end to tests be accompanied by a commitment to work out a reduction of nuclear weapons.

That Mr. Khrushchev wants to trap the unwary with the theory that "banning the use" of nuclear weapons, which cannot be enforced is better than banning the production of nuclear weapons.

Bear in mind that only a few months ago Premier Bulganin, the inveterate letter-writer, penned a note to the European Economic Commission of the United Nations at Geneva, avowing that Moscow was eager to negotiate "every speci" of disarmament.

This was what the Soviet Premier said to an agency of the United Nations which has nothing to do with disarmament.

But the Soviet delegate to the London conference, which has something to do with disarmament, now is saying, in effect, that there are hardly any aspects of disarmament on which the Kremlin wants to negotiate apart from wanting to end the tests.

There is nothing wrong in itself with at least a temporary end to the tests. But are we negotiating a "health" agreement or are we negotiating a "disarmament" agreement?

Ban on Tests

The United States is asking the Soviet Union to make a most modest commitment as a condition for a ten-month ban on tests. We are not asking the Kremlin to agree to end production of nuclear weapons; we are asking the Kremlin only to agree to discuss the ways and means of ending production of nuclear weapons during this ten-month period.

With the perfection of increasingly "clean" bombs, the end of tests may not be a very needed step toward safeguarding the future health of mankind as it is affected by fall-out.

But to accompany the end of tests with an agreement to stop manufacture of fissionable materials which make nuclear weapons — that would be a real step toward real reduction of armaments.

The way to begin to reduce the danger of atomic bombs is to agree to a visible, inspectable method of ending their production.

Maybe Mr. Khrushchev is using hostile words to see if he can extract a one-sided non-disarmament agreement from the West.

At best the hostile Khrushchev attitude may be only the familiar Soviet negotiating tactic.

At worst it may be a Soviet decision to sabotage the London talks and blur the issue of who's responsible.

Freedom Will Wither If It Isn't Used

By HARRY R. PORE Jr.

We Americans expend a good deal of energy in conversation about our rights as citizens — the right to vote, the right to speak, the right to assemble freely. Quite a lively conversation on this topic is going on now in the U. S. Senate.

But I sometimes think we ought to spend less time talking about our rights and more time using them. For when you come down to it, these rights are pretty empty things if they aren't used.

The statistics on the use of the ballot in the United States, for instance, are a disgrace. Even after an exciting campaign, it is unusual if more than 50 to 60 per cent of the eligible voters bother to go to the polls.

Undoubtedly this is the leading contributing cause of deficient government at all levels. Our whole system is based on majority rule, and it can't possibly be at its best when we let minorities rule.

There's another freedom we have that we don't use as we should. And that's freedom to speak up and say what's on our minds, particularly about public affairs.

I don't know whether it's through fear of retribution, indifference or just plain laziness, but the average American today is a clam, even about important matters which directly affect him and his family. He just won't stand up and be counted, especially on controversial questions.

'Don't Quote Me'

Those of us in the news business encounter this reticence all the time. Hardly a day passes that somebody doesn't come into this office or call on the phone or meet us on the street. And he'll be all hot and bothered about something.

But nine times out of ten he'll start the conversation with: "Now don't quote me" or "Don't put this in the paper, but . . ."

I also frequently run across people who have good ideas about public problems, ideas which they are willing to expound to me by the hour in private conversation. Sometimes these folks have expert knowledge and experience and could make a real contribution by speaking up.

But do you think they will? When I suggest that they write a letter for The Peoples Forum or, better yet, go before the city council or the school board and express their views, the usual reaction is: "Oh, I wouldn't want to do that. I'm not in politics." Or perhaps: "I can't afford to get mixed up in things like that."

What they mean, of course, is that they're afraid the expression of an opinion on a controversial question might hurt their business. Or they have a misguided sense of modesty.

Exasperating

One of the most exasperating experiences for me as an editor often comes after the paper has taken sides editorially on some public question, particularly in a hot political campaign. We get brickbats, of course, and we expect them — in fact, welcome them.

But what gets my goat is to have somebody who agrees with our position say so in a whisper behind his hand.

"Boy, you sure gave it to 'em that time," these folks will say. "Keep it up."

But I can't remember when such an individual has publicly put himself on record in support of the cause in which he has said he believes.

For whom was freedom of speech invented, anyway? Just for politicians and editors and commentators who get paid for using it?

Certainly not! It was intended for all the people. And it was intended to be used by them in the course of everyday life.

I think it's a bad sign when people supposedly devoted to freedom refuse or are afraid to use their freedom. Because freedom is the kind of thing that needs exercise to keep it strong and vital. Fail to use it, and it can wither.

Groundhogs Can, too, Climb Tree Trunks

By JOHN H. DAY

Don't ever let anyone tell you the groundhog can't climb straight up the trunk of a huge tree. I came out of a thicket the other day, apparently surprising a young woodchuck who started right up a big elm at least three feet through at the base. He looked just like an overgrown, short-tailed squirrel as he scrambled up the rough trunk, sidling around so as to put the tree between us. About 20 feet up he draped himself over a small branch and clung there grimly, hoping to ride out whatever trouble my sudden appearance threatened.

The elm stands in loamy bottomland beside the stone abutments of a steel bridge which spans the wide stream in that remote valley. Mr. Chuch had probably been sunning on one of those flat stones and the tree was his first line of escape when I surprised him. By climbing up the stone-work I was able to get close enough to poke him with my walking stick.

With the end of the cane I "twisted" the grotesque appendage the groundhog wears as a tail. This didn't seem to bother him. When I rubbed his back with the walking stick he stood it just so long, then turned and tried to nip the cane. Finally when I dislodged the hold of one of his feet he decided to chance a leap and dropped into the weeds below like a sack of wet sand. The last I saw of him was that quaint tail following along indignantly as he scurried across the road and into the cover of the weedgrown field.

Straight up Trunk

On three or four occasions I have come across groundhogs perched in sapling trees, usually put up by dogs who had jumped them too far from the home burrow. But this was the first time I had ever seen one of these lumbering fellows climb straight up the trunk of a big tree. Apparently if he has to, the whistlepig can be just as much at home in the air as he is in the ground.

The July countryside is compounded of many things. Strange and wonderful indeed are the many things which go to make up the perfect mid-summer picture. Such as the Joe-pye weed and the asters now setting up shop for the fall flower show. Or the orange milkweed, luring all the butterflies in the neighborhood with dazzling beauty and heady nectar. Gorgeous is the word for the neon-lighted blossoms of the orange milkweed.

The strange little butterfly known as the Viceroy is flying now. I scared up a dozen or so along the country roadway. These fellows although belonging to a different family, mimic in nearly every detail the red-orange coloring and the black markings of the common milkweed butterfly called the Monarch. Apparently the Monarch has such a bad milkweedy taste that the birds let him alone. The Viceroy has discovered this and enjoys the same safety by copying the Monarch's costume.

Leaning out from shaded roadside banks now are long wands of the American bellflower, studded with the lovely blue blooms. Towering over the undergrowth in moist bottomlands are the frothy, lacy blossoms of the tall meadow rue. The tiny imperfect blooms of smooth sumac line roadways and fencerows, playing host to countless bees and flies who come to sip at the nectar pots and stay to pollinate the flowers and set the fruits.

Strange Performer

One of the strange performers in the July pageant is the yellow-breasted chat. Here is a real entertainer, gifted with the weirdest assortment of whistles, clucks, mews and chuckles in the whole feathered repertoire. From the thorny center of his chosen briar tangle this shy fellow will suddenly fling himself into the air, tumbling back in jerky, self-conscious flight, meanwhile indulging in his queer collection of vocal sounds.

Perhaps the chat is the true symbol of the July countryside. You will hear him anywhere you go off the beaten path, but you will see him only when he chooses to be seen. He keeps at his strange music making all night long, should the moon be bright. Even on a dark July night, should the air be balmy, he tunes up those queer sounds which can give the midnight thickets an eerie aspect.

ON THE BALL

By CLAIR BROWN

Dick Falenski to Enroll at Pitt

Dick Falenski, Derry Township's renowned cager, after weighing many offers, has decided to enroll at Pitt, which is certainly good news for Bobby Timmons, Panther cage coach. It had been thought Dick would attend St. Francis College where his older brother Don is a standout . . . A quartet of visiting golfers at Nemacolin Country Club this week witnessed a rarity when one of their members shot a double eagle two on the second hole. Making the shot was A. D. Meder of Steubenville, Ohio, using a seven iron on his second shot on the 435-yard uphill hole. Three other Steubenvilleites were members of his foresome. The Nemacolin course is becoming very popular throughout the tri-state area.

The old saying, "you can't fight city hall," was brought home recently to Bob Feller, the retired star pitching great of Cleveland fame. After he had blasted the club owners during the congressional hearings at Washington last month, he was notified that Wrigley Field in Los Angeles would not be available for his baseball clinic as originally agreed. Feller had to conduct his clinic on a sandlot diamond . . . Lewis Savisky, who played both football and baseball at Monongahela High School, is one of two scholarship winners of Pittsburgh Coal Company-sponsored mining engineering awards. Savisky spent a year at St. Vincent College but has now transferred to Pitt for the mining course.

Over 500 Fans See Summer Cage Tilt

Over 500 spectators watched a basketball (yes, basketball) game on an outdoor court at McKeesport the other night. Coach Neenie Campbell of the Tigers, supervises a summer recreation basketball league. Convenient, eh, wot? . . . The Phillies have signed Joe Porkony, Masontown hurler, recently discharged from the service. He has been assigned to Schenectady of the Eastern League . . . Members of the Midget, junior and Prep League baseball teams in Belle Vernon will be the guests of the Lions club there at the Pirate-St.Louis Cards game today at Forbes Field. Couldn't have picked a better game as Stan the Man, of the Cards, is practically every young lad's idol.

Monongahela's PONY League National champions have graduated to Prep League ball but have apparently lost some of their extra-special ability as they were clubbed in their first start against Washington, 15-3. The losers committed seven errors in that game and we can recall when they wouldn't make seven errors in an entire elimination series . . . Look for St. Vincent College to develop into a major basketball threat before too many years. Coach Dodo Canterna has landed just what the doctor ordered for next season — a 6-5, 215-pound center, Bob Sagan, all-state player from Ohio . . . Dick (Little Mo) Modelewski and Ed (Big Mo) Modelewski, former Har-Brack High grid stars and Ron Nery, New Kensington High ex-standout, have been prepping for the coming pro grid season at Har-Brack High Stadium.

Carroll Wants Midget Football

Several Carroll Township residents are interested in forming a midget football league in the Township for boys 9 to 12 years of age. They hope to have enough boys interested by August 1 to start league plans. Wayne Boyd, Al Kovacik and Wilfred Yates, of Donora, are behind the drive . . . Richard Barkley, a football-basketball coach at West Newton High for ten years, has been hired as a physical education teacher at North Huntingdon Twp. His salary will be $5,000. Barkley spent most of last year teaching in New Jersey, but apparently decided to return home.

Poker-faced Pros Also Get Tourney 'Jitters'

By OSCAR FRALEY

DAYTON, Ohio (UP)—Fearless Fraley's fairway facts and figures from the PGA golf championship.

The pro golfers try to maintain a poker-faced calm when they play in championship events, but beneath that stony exterior their nerves jump just like those of any hacker trying to run one down to win a 50-lent Nassau.

You can take that from Jay Hebert, who beat Doug Ford, 3 and 2, in the fourth round Friday. Jay had two putts from eight feet on the 16th green against Ford to close out their match.

"I stepped up to that first putt and couldn't move the putter," he confessed. "I stepped away, gave myself a silent lecture, went back to the putt—and was just barely able to push the ball toward the hole."

Looked Like Yards

The putt ran 18 inches past with Jay yelling "Whoa whoa." Then, when he stepped up to tap that one in, he attested that "those 18 inches looked like 18 yards."

Jay and his brother, Lionel, who had hoped to meet in the semi-finals, played each other once. That was in their home town of Lafayette, La., and the younger Lionel piled up a five-stroke lead on the front nine. Lionel then shot an even-par 36 on the back nine—but lost by one shot as Jay hit him with a six-under-par 30.

Such is fame: It was announced that Walter Hagen, one of golf's all-time greats, was at the PGA championship. At which a spectator at the 18th green observed:

"Hagen, isn't that the fellow who came back after being in an automobile accident?" Which probably wouldn't make either Hagen or Hogan very happy.

Tom Blackburn, the University of Dayton basketball coach who is a Dayton golf pro in the summer, says that Xavier and Cincinnati will be two of the top court teams in the Midwest this winter. Tom has "sophomoritis" to worry about.

Harmon Caught Short

Claude Harmon, the 41-year-old Winged Foot pro, didn't anticipate reaching the quarter-finals, which meant that he had to stay at least for Saturday's consolation round for fifth place. So Friday night he had to go out and buy some new duds for himself and his 14-year-old son, Butch.

"I'm so nervous, I can't eat," Butch told his dad after "their" victory over Tommy Bolt in the fourth round. Claude just smiled—and ate a hearty lunch.

The best story of the tournament concerns an amateur — the greatest—by the name of Bobby Jones.

Mitnick Hurls Ozarks to 7-2 Win

Crawley Paces 14-Hit Attack On New Eagle

Bill Mitnick was in top form at Ninth Street Park last night as he blanked New Eagle until the final inning in a 7-2 triumph for the Ozarks.

Bill Mitnick was in top form at Ninth Street Park last night as he blanked New Eagle until the final inning in a 7-2 triumph for the Ozarks.

Backing the excellent hurling on a very hot evening were Carl Crawley, Bob Mastracci and Mike Kunsa, and Pappy Johnson.

Crawley clubbed a homer and double, Johnson hit for two bases while Mastracci showed three safe blows in four trips as did Kunsa.

Mitnick had allowed only three hits until the seventh when the excessive heat weakened him and he allowed four more safe blows.

The locals took a 2-0 lead in the first, increased it to 3-0 in the third, 4-0 in the fifth and clinched matters completely by tallying three times in the seventh and then holding off the New Eagle rally.

In the seventh Gene Uhlman hit off Mitnick, Bewick tripled to score Uhlman, Vic Furiga singled to score Bewick, followed by a double by Gerlack before the fire was extinguished.

The game was marred by only one umpire showing for the game, Fisher Brown handling it alone until Harry McCurdy, present as a spectator, came down out of the stands to lend assistance.

Action resumes for the Ozarks Monday when they travel to West Newton.

Pirates Blast Cards, 7-0

Law Bests McDaniel Easily

PITTSBURGH (UP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates tightened their hold on seventh place Friday night by defeating St. Louis, 7-0, in a barrage of power which sent rookie fireballer Von McDaniel to the showers.

Pittsburgh goes into today's game with St. Louis a full two games ahead of last place Chicago.

Cheer for Law

In Friday night's contest the fans, who had come to see the heralded McDaniel, cheered instead for Vernon Law, who scattered nine singles for his second shoutout and sixth victory of the season.

Law was in trouble only once, in the eighth, when Stan Musial and Wally Moon hit back-to-back-singles with one out. But the next two batters flied out.

McDaniel, making his debut at Forbes Field, ran into trouble right from the start. With two away in the first inning, Bill Virdon tripled to center and Frank Thomas cracked his 14th homer over the left field wall.

To the Showers

The Pirates picked up two more runs in the third and fifth frames and sent the 18-year old McDaniel to the showers in the sixth. He was charged with six runs and nine hits.

The Pirates picked up their seventh run, an unearned one, in the seventh.

In today's contest, Murry Dickson (4-2), or Herman Wehmeier (3-4) is scheduled to face Pirate starter Bob Friend (7-11).

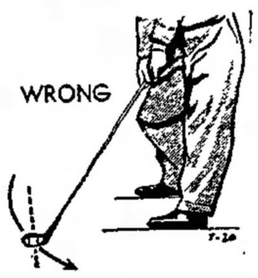
DOCTORING YOUR GOLF

By CARY MIDDLECOFF



Misplaced Weight

Keep your weight back through the heels on all shots. The downswing creates a force that tends to pull the body forward. Counteract this force by placing a little extra weight back on the heels to start with.

But. . . if an aspiring golfer takes this advice too much to heart, he can easily get too much of the weight back on the heel with the result that his swing will be too flat-footed. If your swing is too flat-footed, you are apt to pull the ball severely to the left of the target. And this ain't good.

Remember, counteract the forward pull created by the downswing by restricting your weight to your heels. This bit of footwork can really pay off!

Duke's Talking to Himself Again—Makes Bums Happy

By MILTON RICHMAN

Duke Snider is talking to himself again and it sounds like money in the bank to the delighted Brooklyn Dodgers.

The Duke insists he does his best hitting only when he talks to himself at the plate. He began giving himself pep talks right after the All-Star Game and take a look at the results:

He has hit seven home runs in nine games since then; his batting average has jumped 10 points to a season high of .282, and the rejuvenated Dodgers have won eight of their last nine games to climb within one game of the National League lead.

Snider put on quite a show as the Dodgers swept their first double-header of the season Friday night by copping a twi - nighter from the Cubs. In the opener, which the Dodgers won, 6-3, in 10 innings, the Duke slammed a homer in the 10th, and then clouted his 23rd circuit of the season in the third inning of the nightcap to aid in a 5-3 triumph.

Snider's first homer of the night tied the opener at 3-3 and rookie John Roseboro followed with a three-run homer to win the game. Lee Walls hit two homers for the Cubs and Bobby Morgan one. Sandy Koufax struck out 11 Chicago batters but the victory went to reliever Clem Labine.

Braves Retain Lead

The Duke's second homer gave Sal Maglie a 3-1 lead in the finale and after Chicago tied the score, the Dodgers scored a pair in the sixth for their sweep. Ernie Banks and Bob Speake homered for the Cubs.

Milwaukee retained its one-game lead with a 3-1 victory over the Giants, while Cincinnati defeated Philadelphia, 7-2, and Pittsburgh blanked St. Louis, 7-0.

The Yankees widened their American League lead to six games by mauling Cleveland, 9-1. Boston whipped the White Sox, 5-2; Baltimore topped Kansas City, 4-2 and Detroit beat Washington, 4-1.

Veteran Andy Pafko drove in all three of Milwaukee's runs with a pair of homers off southpaw Johnny Antonelli. His second home run with one on the ninth brought lanky Gene Conley his third victory. Bobby Thomson produced the Giants' only run with a fourth-inning homer.

Cincinnati knocked out Phillie ace Jack Sanford with a five-run rally in the fifth and went on to total 15 hits, one of which was George Crowe's 21st home run. Southpaw Joe Nuxhall of the Redlegs gave up only four hits, including a homer by Roy Smalley.

Von McDaniel Kayoed

Vern Law of the Pirates limited the Cards to nine scattered hits as Pittsburgh rapped rookie sensation Von McDaniel for six runs in 5 2-3 innings. Frank Thomas homered for the Pirates.

Bill Skowron's 15th homer with two on off Bud Daley highlighted a seventh-inning, five-run rally for the Yankees, who have now won 18 of their last 21 games. Southpaw Whitey Ford was the winner although he left in favor of Art Ditmar in the seventh when his left shoulder tightened. Gene Woodling homered for the Tribe.

Ted Lepcio slammed a three-run homer off southpaw Billy Pierce in the third inning and that was all the Red Sox needed as Willard Nixon and Ike Delock collaborated on a six-hitter. Nixon was the winner.

Billy Loes pitched a seven-hitter and Billy Goodman drove in a pair of runs to lead the Orioles to their victory over the Athletics. The triumph boosted Baltimore to within a half-game of fifth place. Woody Held homered for Kansas City.

Paul Foytack and Harry Byrd of the Tigers combined to hold the Senators to eight hits, with Foytack striking out seven batters in 7 2-3 innings for his 10th victory. Frank House homered for the Tigers, who scored their first run when Reno Bertoia tripled in the first inning and stole home.

Probe Switching To Pro Football

WASHINGTON (UP) — The congressional sports hearing took a time-out today and prepared to switch its attention from organized baseball to the equally stormy question of pro football.

The House subcommittee studying whether professional sports should be placed under the anti-trust laws wound up its investigation of baseball Friday by hearing testimony from Brooklyn Dodgers' Vice President Fresco Thompson in defense of farm systems.

The hearings will be in recess until next Wednesday, when Commissioner Bert Bell of the National Football League and former pro [illegible] on stars Chuck Bednarik and Sam Luckman will be called to testify.

Thompson, who guides the Dodgers' vast farm system, denied that big league teams "monopolize" 90 per cent of the good prospects. He disputed testimony three weeks ago by Leslie M. O'Connor, president of the Pacific Coast League, regarding the operation of farm systems.

Thompson said O'Connor's suggestion that major league teams be allowed to control no more than 40 players would "be bad for baseball" because it would reduce competition for players, "drastically reduce" the number of minor league teams which "could not exist without the help they get from the major league organizations," and "lower the quality of play at all levels."

CIO Softball Nine Blasts Donora, 16-2

Two Suspended For Fight Cuts

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (UP) — Winner Rory Calhoun and loser Germinal Ballarin of France both were automatically suspended today for 30 days because of face cuts suffered in Friday night's bloody television fight.

Middleweight contender Calhoun, the 3 - 1 favorite, required 14 stitches on his left cheek and brow although he wound up with the unanimous 10-round decision.

The surprising Frenchman, with the luxuriant, drooping black mustache, who won the acclaim of the 1,447 fans in War Memorial Auditorium by leading in the first half of the bout, needed nine stitches on a deep gash in his left brow and three more on two lesser nicks in the same area.

Although their immediate plans are indefinite because of their wounds, promoter Norman Rothschild of Syracuse would like to have a re-match in September or October.

RAF Pilot Runs Mile In Stunning 3:57.2

By ROBERT MUSEL

LONDON (UP) — Derek Ibbotson, a mighty happy Royal Air Force private, agreed today that his stunning world record of 3:57.2 for the mile can be lowered—"But only if the race is run on motorcycles."

Ibbotson, who led an historic four-man parade through the four-minute barrier Friday, said he's switching now to a campaign for the world two-mile record.

"Ibbotson can run even faster," predicted Dr. Roger Bannister, the British hero who was the first man to break the four - minute roadblock in the mile run. "Yesterday's race was superb, but Derek can run faster. He is magnificent."

Gets Headlines

The 24-year-old Ibbotson, who had beaten four minutes twice before, first ran red - shirted Stanislav Jungwirth of Czechoslovakia into defeat in the race at White City Stadium and then stood off a slamming finish by Ron Delany of Ireland, the Olympic 1,500 - meter champion who attends Philadelphia's Villanova University.

Delany was second in 3:58.8 and Jungwirth third in 3:59.1. Ken Wood of England was fourth in 3:59.3—making the first time in history that four men in the same race bettered four minutes. Three men had done it on May 28, 1955 in a race here won by Hungary's Laszlo Tabori.

Ibbotson's time eclipsed the 3-year-old world mark of 3:58.0 set by John Landy of Australia at Turku, Finland, and London's tabloid Daily Mirror exulted in a headline today, "The World Mile Record Is Back Where It Belongs —In Britain."

Blagrove Set Pace

Ibbotson disclosed that his record run was carefully planned, but was nearly wrecked by a slow third quarter. British dark-horse Michael Blagrove, playing the role of a pace-setting "rabbit," led the field through a 55.3 first quarter had a 1:55.8 half-mile before fading away. Jungwirth, holder of the world "metric mile" record, went ahead then, followed by Ibbotson, Stefan Lewandowski of Poland, and Delany as they went into the last lap in 3:00.0.

Ibbotson challenged Jungwirth with 300 yards to go. The Czech held on grimly for 80 yards and then Ibbotson went ahead by 12 yards. Delany, always the late runner, didn't start his move until 70 yards from home. He nailed the tiring Jungwirth easily but never could catch Ibbotson.

"Firesweep" Series In 1957 DeSoto Offers Greatest Value

The third model, the 1957 DeSoto Firesweep, on display at Frank's Service Store, DeSoto-Plymouth sales and service, 122 East Donner avenue, is all new and lower priced.

The new model is described by L. Irving Woolson, DeSoto president, as "the greatest value ever offered in the medium price field."

The new car features many automotive advances, including a revolutionary new suspension system, a newly designed V-8 engine, a triple-range push-button transmission, and an all-weather new air condition system.

According to Mr. Woolson, the Firesweep, with its sister cars, the Fireflite and Firedome, now gives DeSoto a price coverage in 91 per cent of today's car market, excepting the very low-priced field.

A highlight feature of the new DeSoto Firesweep is a 122-inch wheelbase incorporating a number of revolutionary suspension advances. This results in the smoothest, most comfortable ride possible and is termed Torsion-Aire Ride.

Mechanical torsion bars replace conventional front springs, save space and reduce weight by 30 percent. Safety-Sphere joints reduce steering gear friction, greatly reducing steering effort. An anti-brake dip device, which reduces forward pitch by 85 percent, is also standard.

Rear-end stability is increased by mounting rear springs outboard of the frame. DeSoto's redesigned Oriflow shock absorbers give heightened performance on any road surface.

All suspension components are isolated from the heavily re-inforced frame by rubber bushings. This greatly reduced road, shocks, provides quieter operation and minimizes lubrication points from 23 to only eight.

Also contributing to the Firesweep's smoother ride and easier handling are new 14-inch tires with a wider tread for greater traction and better cornering, and requiring only 22 lbs. air pressure. Together with the new "step-down" chassis, they help account for the Firesweep's unusually low silhouette, measuring barely four feet seven and one-half inches from road to roof.

The completely new DeSoto Firesweep engine is a V-8 powerplant rated at a highly-competitive 245 hp. with a 325 cubic inch displacement, 8.5 to 1 compression ratio and a new "high-intensity" camshaft.

We miss you now, our hearts are sore,
As time goes on we miss you more.
Your loving smile, your gentle face,
No one can fill your vacant place
Sadly missed by daughter, Ann and grandchildren, Allan and Michele

In loving memory of our dear father and grandfather, Enrico Vivio, who died three years ago today, July 20, 1954
A wonderful father so loyal and true,
One in a million, that father was you.
Just in your judgment, always right;
Honest and liberal, ever upright.
Loved by your friends and all whom you knew,
Our wonderful father, that father was you.
Sadly missed by Sons, Daughters and Grandchildren

Reservoir Dam Still Holding

CAPULIN, Colo. (UP)—Residents of this small San Luis Valley community waited hopefully today for word the danger of terrace reservoir dam crumbling was past and they could return to their homes.

The 400 residents of Capulin, five miles below the reservoir on the Alamosa River, and an estimated 600 others in the area were evacuated early Thursday when the earthen dam sprang a leak and threatened to loose 18,000 acre-feet of water into the southern Colorado Valley.

"The dam is still holding," caretaker Demon Davis said early today. "It looks like we'll save it —that is, if we don't have any heavy rain."

Street Improvements Are Discussed by Councilmen

Street improvements were discussed at the regular July meeting of Fayette City Borough Council on Thursday.

Council voted unanimously to advertise for bids on concrete to complete street construction now underway in the hill section. These bids for materials will be opened at a special meeting next Thursday.

Labor for the proposed street work will be supplied by Fayette County.

Council heard a report that poles had been installed to carry street markers recently donated by the Lions Club. The markers will be placed at all of the borough's intersections.

A motion was carried to make the annual payment of $3000 to the Yoder Construction Co. for previous street construction. After payment, the borough will still owe a bill of $7,752.03.

Mrs. Dorothy Riley, of Fayette City, appeared before Council, stating that an open road to her residence was closed by new construction. Council agreed to construct a new roadway as soon as possible.

The meeting was in charge of President John Canigiani. Other Councilmen present were Lewis Alberta, Jake Zubovic, Harold Keenan, James Davis and Leroy Gardner as well as Secretary Edward Shook.

Goodwill Group To Seek Support

The Goodwill Industries of Pittsburgh, an organization which provides work for the physically-handicapped, will seek material support from Fayette City residents on Monday.

The collection will be promoted by the Women's Society for Christian Service of the Methodist Church.

The Church will be open all day Monday to persons who wish to contribute clothes, furniture or other items.

If the gift is too big to handle, telephone numbers will be accepted at the church and a truck will be sent out Tuesday morning to make pick-ups.

Mrs. Mary McGee Honored at Party

Mrs. Mary McGee was honored on her 77th birthday with a family party at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Edward Shook, on Wednesday.

Her children and grandchildren gathered to celebrate the occasion. Attending were her son Edward and family, of Newell, a daughter, Mrs. Ann Humphries, her son, Carl, and the Shook family.

Civilians Can Survive Aerial Nuclear Warfare

ATOMIC TEST SITE, Nev. (UP) —Detonation of atomic-armed air-to-air rocket almost 30,000 feet above the Atomic Energy Commission test site has proved that civilian populations could survive under aerial nuclear warfare.

An F89 Scorpion jet launched the rocket Friday in the first successful air detonation of an atomic missile from a fighter plane.

On the ground directly under the brilliant fire ball stood five U.S. Air Force officer volunteers.

"The blast didn't even ruffle our clothing," said Col. Sidney Bruce, Durango, Calif., one of the volunteers. "But we could feel the heat and it was like opening the door of a furnace. It only lasted for a fraction of a second."

The officers volunteered to undergo the test, Lt. Col. Frank Ball, Washington D. C., another of the human guinea pigs said, "so we can talk from actual experience about the effects on the people on the ground." The other volunteers were Maj. John Hughes, McKeesport, Pa.; Maj. Norman Bodinger, Ridgefield, N.J., and Maj. Donald Luttrell, Dallas, Tex.

Shapiro 'Sets Record Clear' On Retrenchment

HARRISBURG (UP) — Welfare Department Secretary Harry Shapiro "set the record clear" today on what course of retrenchment he would take at state mental hospitals and schools to compensate for a reduced budget.

Shapiro said no employe dismissals or "any other action" would be made pending completion next week of a survey of the institutions. He added that labor representatives would be consulted prior to any firings and that individual retirement and social security statues would be considered.

Earler Shapiro had warned dismissals and readjustments were to be made arbitrarily to bring the institutions' finances within the scope of the Legislature's budget.

The survey is to determine what if any services will have to be curtailed, expected cost of operations and the number of employes to be retained.

Ike Pays Visit To Son's Home

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (UP) — President Eisenhower today set out for an informal housewarming at the nearby home of some new neighbors—his son and family.

The President's son, Maj. John Eisenhower, and his family moved into their new house adjacent to the Eisenhower farm for the first time this week end. The younger Eisenhower's new home is a remodeled schoolhouse that once was part of the President's farm.

Aside from an expected visit with his son in the new house, the presidential order of the day was golf.

The President got in a fast 18 holes Friday after flying from the capital.

Only Us Chickens

CHICAGO (UP) — Police rushed to investigate an excavator's report he had found a mound of bones under a building being repaired. They discovered the building used to be a butcher shop.

Old Bear Drowns In Detroit Zoo

Your Health—

Hair, Scalp Need Regular Care

By H. N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

Few parts of a person's body are neglected more than the hair and scalp.

Of course, many women go to the beauty parlor or have a do-it-yourself home permanent wave every so often, and a surprising number of men, who find their hair thinning, keep dabbing this and that on their heads in a vain effort to cultivate a new crop.

But what about keeping the hair in good shape in the first place?

To have a healthy scalp and head of hair, you've got to keep them clean. Toward that end, I advise washing your hair at least once each week. If you have dandruff, you'll probably have to do it two or three times weekly to wash the scales from the scalp.

Generally, you can use a simple soap shampoo. A good shampoo will lather well and do a good cleaning job. However, no matter what type of shampoo you use, it will not make your hair grow or influence the amount of oil your scalp secretes.

Be sure you rinse all the soap from your hair. The best time to take a shampoo, probably, is during the day or right after dinner at the latest. Then your hair will have a chance to dry thoroughly before you go to bed.

Soft water, as most of you realize, is better than hard water for washing hair. For an effective shampoo you need lots of lather.

Soft water permits this because it is virtually free of calcium and magnesium irons. It is these irons which precipitate a soap's fatty acids. Since rain water contains none of these irons, it is ideal for washing hair.

Not only does hard water produce much less lather, it might also leave an insoluble and unsightly film on the hair.

If you avhe hard water in your home, adding a chemical agent such as sodium hexametaphosphate probably will help.

Massaging the scalp is a stimulating action and is mildly beneficial. So rub well while taking a shampoo.

Question and Answer

Mrs. C. B.: My child is recovering from a liver infection due to a virus. Should I disinfect her room?

Answer: It is not likely that the infection can be spread by objects in the room. Therefore, disinfecting the room probably would not be of help.

TV 'Go West' Move Turns into Stampede

By ALINE MOSBY

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Television's gradual "go west" movement has turned into a busy stampede.

Actors, producers, advertising agency men and programs themselves are deserting Madison Avenue and Rockefeller Center for the land of orange trees, sport shirts—and cameras.

The capital of television has moved from New York to Hollywood lock, stock and Trendex ratings. And the medium is now leaning overwhelmingly from live shows to film.

Now out of 113 network evening shows this fall season, 78, or 70 per cent, will originate in Hollywood (last year it was 54 per cent), according to present plans.

Of the 113 programs, 64 per cent will be on film (including a few shows filmed in Europe or New York).

TV trade sources believe live TV always will be with us for special events, news shows, interviews and other non-fiction programs. But live TV drama has been curtailed.

One of the top New York live dramas, the Goodyear-Alcoa Playhouse, hereafter will be performed before Hollywood film cameras. Alfred Hitchcock's new NBC show, "Suspicion," will be two-thirds on Hollywood film and one-third live from New York. Some top live New York dramatic offerings, such as "Robert Montgomery Presents," were sent to the showers last spring.

NBC's first two spectaculars of the season—Mary Martin in "Annie Get Your Gun" and Van Johnson in "The Pied Piper" — both will originate in Hollywood, and "The Pied Piper" will be filmed.

"Those live New York dramas seldom get the ratings of a filmed show," is the way one agency executive here puts it. "The live shows are put on by people trained on Broadway and they're too highbrow."

Bath Can Be Room Of Beauty

The bath was the last room to come into the house, and in homes built even as recently as 10 years ago the bathroom generally shows evidence that it was an afterthought. New bathrooms have been really planned until recent years. What should be a room of beauty and convenience is inefficient, ugly and a bottleneck.

But these old, outmoded bathrooms need not remain in that condition, says the Construction Research Bureau, national clearing house for building information. New equipment and conveniences have been developed during the past decade while old materials and equipment have taken on added beauty. Along with this have come new ideas for arrangement so that now the long-neglected bathroom can be improved in many ways at low cost.

The onstruction research Bureau survey finds that in relation to size there is more wasted space in the bathroom than in any other part of the house. Very few baths have enough wall cabinets. The result is clutter and unsightliness. Shelved units with doors, such as used in kitchens, are ideal for storing linens and other articles needed in the bathroom. The average bathroom has an enormous amount of wasted wall space

The space beneath the lavatory also is usually wasted. But it is a simple matter to install a laundry hamper here. Vanity - style lavatory units are available at relatively low cost with a cabinet beneath. If this type lavatory with two wash basins is installed, much of the morning congestion can be overcome, especially in homes with two or three children.

In remodeling a bathroom, the floor requires special attention. It should be colorful, resist moisture and be easy to clean.

Since condensation is usually a problem in bathrooms, many architects recommend covering the walls with cork tile, both to add a distinctive decorative touch and to avoid the considerable amount of maintenance necessary to prevent water damage to walls of plaster or plasterboard. Installation of a wall ventilating fan also is recommended to remove excessive moisture.

Innumerable other things can be done to improve almost any bathroom. For example, an aerating attachment can be slipped over the nozzles of the water faucets to prevent splashing. A small shelf will hold shaving equipment and other toilet articles while in use, and one or two additional holders for water tumblers will prove extremely convenient.

Now Is Time To Think About Next Summer

This is the time to be thinking of next summer's comfort. Air conditioning equipment installed now will be ready to function when the thermometer hits the blistering level.

Owners of hot water or steam heating systems have a choice of different kinds of summer cooling systems, the Plumbing and Heating Industries Bureau points out.

One is the integrated system with heating-cooling units in the rooms. The same piping is used for heating in the winter and cooling in the summer.

Another is the split system in which the functions of heating and cooling are handled by separate equipment. The heat is distributed by baseboards, convectors, radiators, or panels, while the cooling is done by a centrally located cooling unit.

One of the newest systems used baseboards for the distribution of warmed air in the winter and cooled air in the summer.

Another method for cooling available to the householder with hot water or steam heating dispenses with the water chiller and utilizes a cooling element that consists of a compressor condenser. Installed in the attic, basement, or utility room, the cooling unit is equipped with a blower that forces air across the cooling coils and through short conduits into the rooms.

Handling Easy

The convenient size of Marlite planks and blocks makes them easy to handle and apply in renewing walls and ceilings. The blocks, 16 inches square, are especially suitable for ceilings, but they also are used for walls. Eight feet long, the planks reach from floor to ceiling, and their 16" width makes for manageable size.

'Traditional Look' Is New Trend in Homes

A new trend in developing in the appearance of kitchens in American homes, or want of a better term, interior designers call it "the traditional look."

"The new kitchen treatment is simply another of the changes which are continually being made as families tire of what they have been living with and want something different," reports the Construction Research Bureau, national clearing house for building information.

Discussing the growing trend, the Bureau says:

"Immediately after the end of World War II, the clinically white kitchen disappeared. Color and gleaming metal was almost universally used both in new houses and in older homes which were undergoing renovation.

"Manufacturers of kitchen equipment produced their appliances in a rainbow of colors, and for years color was an important selling point. Color is still important, but less emphasis is being placed on it and interior designers are using more subdued tones while eliminating a great deal of the bright metal trim. Use of metal in dull tones is growing rapidly.

"Actually, this so-called traditional look is a trend back toward Colonial days. Knotty pine walls and cabinets are growing in favor. Open barbecue grills are being built into kitchens, in lieu of the old-time kitchen fireplace. Most cooking is done of course in built-in wall ovens and counter-top ranges, but the open barbecue grill lends an early-day note to the room.

"Floors, particularly, have come in for attention. The old-time wood floor effect is sought, but at the same time housewives insist on the convenience, comfort and durability of smooth-surfaced resilient flooring. They especially want the easy-to-clean features of this type of material.

The first friction matches in America were manufactured in 1825 at Thurmont, Md.

New Latex Paint Is Desirable

The new latex paint contains synthetics which prevent undesirable odors and improve the application and cleanability of the product.

Mrs. Barbara Pratt, assistant extension home economist, Westmoreland County, reports latex paint is easy to apply with either brush or roller. It must not be brushed or rolled too thin because it loses some of its covering quality as it dries — and it does dry quickly. Clean hands and brushes with detergent and water before the paint sets.

Latex paint may be used over any flat paint. If it's used over a non-porous surface, such as enamel, sandpaper it lightly or wash with a strong cleaner. This roughens the surface so the paint adheres. It's easy to apply over wallboard and works well on cinder block, concrete or brick.

Make certain the paint is well mixed. If a tube of pigment is added to get the desired shade, extra stirring is necessary to prevent streaking. If more than one gallon is needed, mix it all together before starting to paint.

Do not use latex paint directly on raw wood because the water may raise the wood's grain. Use a wood sealer first to seal the wood and then apply the paint.

It isn't a good practice to use latex paint over wallpaper. The wallpaper color may bleed and the water in the paint may soften the glue and cause the paper to loosen or form blisters. It's difficult to remove wallpaper covered with latex paint.

At last count, there were 132 covered wood bridges still in use in the state of Vermont.
